It Takes a Village to Raise a ... BUDGET

After a 6-year term planting Students for Christ—Ukraine, we are now in the US itinerating to raise our budget for the next term. This is a job that cannot be done on our own.

AGWM personnel work diligently to determine how much we should raise. They want to be sure we will be fully supplied to do what we are called to do.

Christian Life Center in Dayton, Ohio allows us to reside in their beautiful, fully-furnished mission house. CLC is also a great home church even though we are usually only “home” mid-week. Pastor Stan Tarpe and his staff are encouragers and coaches for our task.

Many kind folk welcomed us to the US and keep us functioning here. Steve had a vehicle ready for us to drive from day one. David, who sends out our newsletters and often serves as tech support, set up our US cellphones, wifi, and a new printer. His wife Linda helped organize and stock the kitchen. They also delivered to us first priority items from the things we store in their basement while we are on the field.

David and Harley by the mission house.

Friends and family provide garden vegetables and fresh eggs, home and personal care products, or meals and temporary housing on the road. Some Christian doctors and businesses give us discounts or free samples.

Churches and individuals invite us to share our story to potential donors. Financial supporters send one-time or monthly contributions. Intercessors keep us covered through thick and thin.

We thank God for every “villager” and pray His abundant blessings on you. We are confident that our God will meet all your needs according to the riches of his glory in Christ Jesus. Philippians 4:19.

Our eldest daughter Alexia and her husband Ben recently moved to Springfield, Missouri where Alexia works with AGWM at Africa’s Hope. Anastasia is now engaged to Nick Wagner, a fellow Evangel University alum and current Missouri resident. Kristina left in September for university in northern Cyprus. Michael alone now travels with us. Bless him.
